

Lomandra 'Seascape'

Lomandra confertifolia spp. Rubiginosa 'Seascape'

Description

A stunning selection of Lomandra with dark blue-grey foliage and a graceful weeping habit. During summer highly fragrant small yellow blooms appear that fill the air with a sweet aroma. This is a hardy, attractive plant which is quick to establish yet non-invasive preferring to contain itself to clumping to approximately 75cm diameter. Ideal used in pots, perimeters of borders, rockeries and edging, and on mass. A large area planted in this Lomandra will give a wonderful seascape or Mediterranean effect with movement and soft texture

Lomandras are a genus of perennial herbs. There are approximately 50 known species, all native to Australia hence the extreme drought tolerant properties and hardiness.

Growing Situation and Care Notes

Lomandra 'Seascape' is extremely frost hardy and drought tolerant. Cutting right back to ground level will initiate attractive and fresh new growth
